

National Labor Relations Board vs. Hotel Frank

► NEW DATE: TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 2011
901 Market Street (at Fifth Street)
Powell Street BART/Muni station, San Francisco
Fourth Floor - Suite 400
The trial begins at 9:00 AM.

Workers at the Hotel Frank have been under attack since Wells Fargo Bank foreclosed on the hotel in May, 2010. Wells Fargo brought in a new management company, Provenance, which refuses to recognize the Union contract, has not paid anything for medical coverage or pensions, has dangerously increased the workload for room cleaners and other workers, and has fired Union organizers. One of the fired workers is Marc Norton, a community activist who has worked as a bellman at the hotel for 12 years. UNITE HERE Local 2 has put Hotel Frank on its boycott list.

Wells Fargo sold the hotel to yet another financial speculator, AEW Capital Management, in December. AEW has kept Provenance on as its management company. The assault on workers rights at the hotel continues unabated.

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has issued several complaints against the hotel for violating federal labor laws, including firing and disciplining workers for engaging in Union activities.

Please come spend some time in the courtroom to show your support for the workers at the Hotel Frank. Like their Union sisters and brothers at the Hilton, the Hyatt, the Westin St. Francis and the other big hotels, Hotel Frank workers are on the front line of the fight for workers rights everywhere.

For more information, see www.HotelFrankSF.info and www.OneDayLongerSF.org. (Labor donated)

